Direction (1-7): Below are some statements, given in a random order. When these statements are sequenced properly, they'll form a coherent and meaningful paragraph. After completing the passage, read the given passage carefully and answer the questions that follow. Statement Q is fixed at the third place.

P. Meta will likely have to invest in better moderation tools and transparency measures to ensure that AI-generated content does not undermine the trust and authenticity that users expect from social media platforms.

Q. They will have bios and profile pictures and be able to generate and share content powered by AI on the platform.

R. Other companies are also adapting their tools and strategies, learning from Meta's experience, to avoid similar backlash by ensuring that their AI-generated content remains transparent, reliable, and aligned with user expectations.

S. That comment sparked interest and outrage, raising concerns that the kind of AI-generated slop that's prominent on Facebook would soon come straight from Meta and disrupt the core utility of social media — fostering human-to-human connection.

T. Meta deleted several of its own AI-generated accounts after human users began engaging with them and posting about the bots' sloppy imagery and tendency to go off the rails and even lie in chats with humans.

U. that its platforms remain spaces for meaningful (a)/ human engagement without (b)/ as Meta grapples with this backlash, the company may (c)/ being overrun by unreliable, algorithmic - generated posts (d)/ need to reevaluate its approach to AI integration, ensuring (e)

V. The issue emerged last week when Connor Hayes, a vice president for Meta's generative AI, told the Financial Times that the company expects its homemade AI users to appear on its platforms in much the same way human accounts do.
